THE ARCH
You can sense it in the air -- West Virginia State College is going through major changes, both internally and externally. Our Institution is experiencing renewed vitality by the coming together of students who support and show pride in their school.

Just look around. There is an aura of togetherness to be found here. West Virginia State is becoming not only a place of learning but of growing. Friendships that will last forever are being kindled by students of different backgrounds, but who have the same goals -- graduation.

Our campus, too, has been affected by this new vitality and spirit. From the demolition of old, tired buildings to the creation of new ones. State's campus has been revamped to be as pleasing to the eye as it is to the mind.

Two members of the girls' track team are amazed at what grows inside of track shoes when they are left unattended.

THE BUZZ IS BACK
We Salute You, Dr. Cole!

Administrator, Teacher, Friend!

Tears of sadness fell as administration, faculty, staff, and students prepared to bid farewell to Dr. Thomas W. Cole, Jr. as President of West Virginia State College. He is dedicated and innovative, a man with a vision of the continuation of WVSC as an institution of higher learning for all persons regardless of their ethnic or socio-economic background.

West Virginia State College lost a president; the State of West Virginia found a man who would fight relentlessly for the cause of higher education in the state when Dr. Cole became Chancellor of the West Virginia Board of Regents.

On March 1, 1982, Dr. Cole began service as the eighth president of the College. In addition to refining and implementing the campus facilities master plan, Dr. Cole has brought to the College strong emphasis on such elements as general education, computer literacy, video aided instruction, science, and cooperative education; sensitivity to the human factor in the education process as illustrated by the many new and improved student services that have been effectively integrated with the educational programs; and improvement of the College's support services through decentralized administrative decision making.

A farewell gift to show our sincere thanks.

We will miss Dr. Cole.

AND THIS IS A COW

All right, who ordered the book for the Joys of Carnal Knowledge 206 class?
I can't believe he's going to pay $50 for a book he's not going to read.

O.K. let me get this straight—social security number, address, phone number, my dog's name, and the names of the people I've met in the past year ...

I have been in this line for an eternity.
Studying, taking tests, cramming, mid-terms, finals, etc., this seems to be all students do. Sometimes it seems that every professor believes that his/her class is the only one you have, and it certainly is the most important. Everyone has seen National Lampoon's "Animal House" -- isn't that what college life is about? All work and no play can make Joe College a very dull guy.

You may hear these words from students, but academics are the main reason they came to college. It is part of their dreaming today for a better tomorrow. The academics here at WVSC are comparable to any institution its size. State offers a broad liberal arts curriculum that ranges from Fashion Merchandising to Robotics; Communications to Pre-Med. WVSC has the longest continuing accreditation by the North Central Association of all the colleges and universities in West Virginia.
The reasons behind a strong academic program are a dedicated Academic Affairs Office and a qualified, experienced faculty -- people who take pride in their ability to communicate with the students and their willingness to assist those that may ask for additional help. Though a student may have a professor who is his/her personal favorite, most professors at State are caring people.

Despite the occasional murmurs from students, the academics at WVSC are first rate. And if a fair evaluation of the instruction is given, the student will take out what he/she puts in.
It doesn't matter whether you are male or female, serious or silly, there is a sport for you. Participation in a varsity sport demands dedication, sacrifice, and skill. For the less dedicated, there are intramural sports — just right for the student who enjoys fresh air, sunshine, and friendly competition.

Although the majority of intramural participants are residence hall students, intramurals are open to everyone. Intramurals include such activities as basketball, bowling, flag football, horseshoes, and swimming. Varsity sports for males include basketball, cross country, football, and track; varsity sports for females include basketball, cross country, track, and a sport introduced this year, softball.

For the sports-minded person, there is something for everyone. Sports are a great way to improve your physical fitness. It helps to ease tension and relax your mind. Participation in a sport, whether it be varsity or intramurals is a great way to meet new people, develop lasting friendships and stay in great shape.

West Virginia State College students have available to them recreational and cultural activities to occupy them in the hours between and after classes. This blend of activities for the students consists of sororities, fraternities, student government, intramural sports, game room, the Student Union, and other school-sponsored events.

For those whose interests lean more toward the cultural, State has offered Gospel and Jazz ensembles to perform for our student body. Our school also has something for those whose tastes are more in the way of the arts: The College houses the John W. Davis Fine Arts Building. The exhibits displayed here are changed monthly to ensure that a wide variety of art forms are viewed to meet the students' individual tastes.

Inanimate objects are things that everyone comes in contact with at one time or another during the day—things that have no life of their own. Although they may have no life, they can have an affect on the life of some unsuspecting student. Doors that are locked when you need them to be unlocked; a typewriter that types one thing when you wanted it to type something else—(try explaining that to your English 102 professor). Chairs that seem to be James Bond rejects, and plants that will not grow no matter how much you water them—just little things that make the day a little more interesting.

The day's special didn't turn out to be such a "hot... dog" after all!

ADMINISTRATION
FACULTY
STAFF
Dr. Russell came to West Virginia State College in 1982 as Chairman of the Division of Professional Studies and Chairman of the Department of Industrial Technology. Upon the departure of President Cole in 1986, Dr. Russell stepped into the President's Office to lend his expertise in WVSC's time of need.

Among Dr. Russell's educational achievements are a B.A. in Mathematics from Oberlin College; a B.S. in Electrical Technology from Bradley University; a M.S. in Industrial Education from Bradley University; and an Ed.D. in Industrial Education and Educational Administration from the University of Maryland.

In addition to his extensive educational background, Dr. Russell was formerly employed in the Virginia Community College System, President of Saint Paul's College, employed at Hampton Institute, and attended the U.S. Naval Training School. He has received various special appointments and committee assignments, belongs to numerous organizations, and received many special honors.

Mrs. Alston joined the staff of West Virginia State College in 1968 as a Resident Hall Director. Since that time, she has served as Associate Provost for Student Affairs, Interim Director of Residence Life and Services, Dean of Student Life, and various other positions throughout the Student Affairs division including her present position as Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs.

After graduating from Stratton High School in Beckley, West Virginia, Mrs. Alston attended Bluefield State College, received a B.A. in Sociology from West Virginia State College, and a M.A. in Counseling and Guidance from the West Virginia College of Graduate Studies. Additionally, she has done extensive studies in student development and student life. At the present time, Mrs. Alston is pursuing her education at COGS in student development and enrichment.
Mr. Batson joined the administrative staff at West Virginia State College in 1986. As Vice President for Planning and Institutional Advancement, he is responsible for implementing and coordinating strategic planning processes; organizing and administering fund raising programs and activities, alumni and public relations programs, and the affirmative action plan.

In 1970, Mr. Batson received a B.A. in Biology and Psychology from Mercer University in Macon, Georgia; in 1974, he received a M.Ed. in Biology and in 1978 a Specialist in Education degree from Georgia College, Milledgeville, Georgia; and in 1987, he is a Doctor of Education candidate in Educational Administration at the University of Georgia.

Dr. Brimhall came to West Virginia State College in 1965 and attained tenure in 1971. While here, he has held many positions, such as, Chair of Physics Department, Professor, Chair of Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, and Adjunct Professor at West Virginia College of Graduate Studies.

After graduating from Burlington High School in Burlington, Iowa, Dr. Brimhall attended Burlington Junior College graduating with an A.A. degree. He went on to Hamiline University in Saint Paul, Minnesota where he graduated in 1959 with a B.S. in Physics/Mathematics; graduated in 1965 from the University of Pittsburgh with a M.S. in Physics; and attained his Ph.D. in Physics/Astronomy from Union Graduate School, Cincinnati, Ohio in 1979.
In 1979, Mr. Ledbetter arrived in Institute as Chairman, Military Science (ROTC) Program Consortium, West Virginia State College; West Virginia Institute of Technology; and the University of Charleston; and professor of Military Science.

After graduating from Muskogee Manual High School in Muskogee, Oklahoma, Mr. Ledbetter received a B.A. in Sociology at Lincoln University and a Masters in Public Administration from Golden Gate University in San Francisco. In addition to these degrees, Mr. Ledbetter has pursued college credit in Economics at North Carolina State University, a Lifetime Missouri Teaching Certification in Social Studies from Missouri University, college hours in Government and Politics of East Asia from the University of Kansas, Introduction to Business at Fayetteville State University, and is currently enrolled at West Virginia University College of Graduate Studies where he is pursuing his doctorate in Education Administration. Also, Mr. Ledbetter's Army career from 1963-1983 allowed him to undertake various courses in relation to his field.

Dr. Scott came to West Virginia State College in 1966 as Associate Professor of Education. Since then, he has been Professor, Chairman of the Department of Education and Division of Teacher Education, Administrative Intern, Provost for Continuing Education and Community Service, Director of Nontraditional Programs, and Dean of the Community College Component. Prior to coming to WVSC, Dr. Scott held positions at Appalachia Educational Laboratory; North Central Association; New Careers Development Program; Schenectady, New York Public School System; Columbia University Teachers College; Draper Public Schools, Schenectady, New York; and Stations WGY-WRGB TV in Schenectady.

In addition to attaining his Ed.D. in Elementary Education in 1966 from Teachers College, Columbia University, Dr. Scott attended the State University of New York in Albany where he earned a B.A. cum laude in English, French, and a M.A. in Public School Administration. Also, he attended Ball State University, Michigan State University, Murray State University, Russell Sage College, Union College, Beloit College, and the College of St. Rose.
Dr. Witten came to West Virginia State College in 1979 just as the Community College was being launched. She has held several administrative positions and is now the Acting Dean of the Community College. As dean, Dr. Witten coordinates the work of faculty and staff who teach and administer associate degree programs.

Dr. Witten holds a B.A. degree from Ohio Wesleyan University and a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Cincinnati. She is a member of the following honorary societies: Kappa Delta Pi (Education), Phi Beta Kappa (Liberal Arts), and Order of the Coif (Law School). She has had a number of careers in addition to the administration of higher education. She has practiced law, served as a management consultant, been the executive director of a nonprofit agency, and served as a city manager.

One ever popular response to dorm food is to eat out, and every college has its favorite and not-so-favorite local spots. But the time-honored way to escape dorm food is to graduate. There probably isn't a campus in the country where students don't complain about the food.

The trend today in dining halls is the major demand for healthier meals and more fast foods, and college food services are striving to keep up. With a line of cheap and greasy food places right outside the college boundaries, campus dining halls struggle to keep hold of the students' food dollars. Today, on some campuses, students can sign up for the number of meals per semester they're likely to show up for; they can charge meals and groceries to their own accounts or their parents'; they can even choose the amount of money they want to spend and receive a board card worth exactly that. Assorted self-serve centers, vegetarian choices, and salad bars are used to treat students as customers -- not captives.

As customers, the students are surveyed on their food preferences and invited to join food service advisory committees. Below are some ideas that various colleges use in an effort to improve their programs:

Notre Dame University specializes in theme dining: on "Swamp Night," students tried Cajun Cuisine; on "Home Cooking Night," they sampled recipes from assorted moms and dads.

Georgetown University serves filet mignon by candlelight during their "White Linen Service" night.

University of Houston has an ice cream parlor and a restaurant, but the biggest thing is allowing students to use their board cards nearly anywhere on campus.

As students become more fitness conscious, they become more health food conscious, interested in the sugar content, fat content, and the overall nutritional value of food. This, compared with the cost of a meal, eating on campus is often the cheapest game in town. However, dorm students all have one characteristic in common -- munching. Munching is the answer to everything from flunked exams to lost loves, and every college town has hangouts that cater to serious snack attacks.

Some students' retreats across the nation serve up exotic variations on an old stand-by. Take the armadillo sausage pizza at Double Dave's near Texas A&M. Or the 4,500-calorie treat at Snuffer's near Southern Methodist: eight ounces of cheddar cheese avalanch ed onto a mound of fries.
Regional dishes are popular even when they're far from home. Ohio Staters gobble Buffalo Chicken Wings in Columbus, and Oklahoma Staters go for Coney Island hot dogs in Stillwater. Others: University of Illinois students enjoy raw cookie dough at Cookies, Etc. in Champaign.

Falafel, a Middle Eastern melange of mashed chickpeas and other veggies at the Pitaria near NYU.

Sushi from Light and Healthy near USC -- all you can eat for $10.95.

Eskimo Joe's near Oklahoma State delivers burger 'n fries with style.

This story was condensed from the March 1987 On Campus Newsweek, pp. 12-17.

Newsweek On Campus Poll: Food, Tolerable Food

Despite their grumbling, students give campus food surprisingly good marks. Still, they're eager to supplement it; one-third are classed as heavy snackers, taking snack breaks three to five times a week. The overwhelming majority also opine that they eat more junk food than other Americans. That may be why nearly half the respondents ballooned in freshman year: 34 percent gained 10 to 20 pounds and 12 percent gained more. Bulimia is not so rare: 36 percent say they binge and purge or know someone who does.

For this Newsweek On Campus Poll, The Gallup Organization conducted 516 face-to-face interviews with college students on 100 college campuses nationwide between Oct. 21 and Nov. 6, 1986. The margin of error is plus or minus 6 points. "Don’t know" responses omitted; percentages may add up to more than 100 when multiple responses are permitted. West Virginia State College used American Food Management, Inc. during the 1986-87 Academic Year. The improvements made in the Nest and the operation of a pub were two ways utilized to increase student traffic. Their menu included food that was appealing and varied. Below is a menu from one cycle. A cycle is one week from each of the months in a five-month group.

All during the season WVSC's "Pride Inside" was #54, Ron Moore, a seven-foot All-American senior center. Ron is picked to go in the first round of this year's pro draft. Ron dominated from the inside with his short jumpers, his ability to crash the boards, and his shot-blocking technique.

The 1986-87 West Virginia State College Yellowjackets proved to be one of the best teams ever in the school's history. The season ended on a note of both sadness and gladness: The gladness in that the Jackets won the WIAC Tournament and advanced to the final round of the NAIA Tournament in Kansas City, Missouri; the sadness in that Head Basketball Coach, Craig Carse will be leaving State after four seasons to accept an assistant coaching position at Louisiana State University.

State opened their season November 25 by trouncing Blufton of Ohio 135-89. After defeating WV Wesleyan on December 1, WVSC received their first defeat at the hands of WV Tech by 99-81. During their next eleven games, State compiled a record of 9-2 with losses to LSU and the University of Charleston.

After their January 10 loss to U.C., the Yellowjackets went on a streak winning all of their remaining regular season games. Compiling a 31-4 record including a streak-ending 89-87 win over Kanawha Valley rivals U.C., the Yellowjackets became the WIAC regular season champions.

This year's team lived up to pre-season predictions. They totally dominated the conference during the 1986-87 season. The Yellowjacket men's basketball team left behind a legacy that neither themselves, the school, nor the fans will ever forget.
A huddle during a time-out shows the unity and determination that marked the Yellowjacket season.

Ron Moore, Stan Cartey, and Omar Booth give pre-game high-fives.
Wayne Casey seems to be walking on air as he shoots an easy lay-up.

The West Virginia Men's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Tournament began on February 25 at the Charleston Civic Center Coliseum. The Jackets, entering the tournament as the number one team to beat, played their first game February 26 and proceeded to beat Shepherd College by an 80-64 margin. The next night, State bounced the Golden Bears of WV Tech off the walls of the coliseum by a score of 106-78. They swept the Conference Tournament and captured the championship by defeating Bluefield State 116-89. This led to the Jackets' invitation to participate in the Fiftieth Anniversary of the NAIA Tournament held in Kansas City, Missouri. In Kansas City, the Jackets defeated Harding (AK), Oregon Tech, and Waynesburg to reach the semifinals. On their way to the National Championships, the Jackets then met and defeated the Tigers of Georgetown (KY) in a game nationally televised by ESPN.

State's opponent in the National Championship game was Washburn from KC. State lost the game 79-77 on what many believed was Washburn's ability to commit flagrant fouls, and the lack of ability on the officials' part to call the fouls. These two situations caused two of State's key players, Ron Moore and Larry Bryson, to foul out in the second half.

Although we lost that particular game, the men who made up the 1986-87 Yellowjacket basketball team are champions to us. We are proud of the way they represented the college and the state. We wish the coaching staff and the players the best in their careers and in their lives.

WE LOVE YOU GUYS!!

Carlos McKibben, Resident Director of Gore Hall, holds sign to express his sentiments as fans greet the team when they return from Kansas City.

As Larry Bryson looks on, Team Captain, Ron Legette addresses welcoming crowd. Legette, WVIAC's MVP, who also made Honorable Mention All-American, was the team's second leading scorer. State's streaking guard, along with teammate, Bryson, were drafted by the Miami Hurricanes.

Stunt with Style

The LadyJackets floored a relatively young team this year. Most lacked viable playing experience on the college level, this may have been the reason why the LadyJackets were picked by the coaches of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WVIAC) to finish 12th in the conference state, who was 7-15 overall and finished 12th in the WVC's 1986-87 regular-season standings, did live up to that particular predication. They were, however not without their moments of "sting" and "style".

On February 14th, the LadyJackets "stung" Alderson-Broaddus for a 103-77 victory. During that game, Donna Gordon, State's 6'1 Senior Center and NAIA All-American, played with style by scoring a conference record of 48 points and grabbing 15 rebounds. Gordon also set school records this season and also for her career here at WVSC, by amassing 2,005 points and 1,450 rebounds. Gordon's teammates provided the sparks that the team needed from time to time. Maria Battle's perimeter shooting made for exciting basketball, and Tracy Hamilton's shadowing in State's pressure defense kept their opponents honest.

The biggest thrill though for the LadyJackets could have come after their regular-season had already ended. With their No.12 rank, West Virginia State College upset No.5 ranked West Liberty by a score of 85-76 in the first round of the women's division of the West Virginia Conference Tournament.

The 1986-87 West Virginia State College LadyJackets were led by Head Coach Glover Smiley. After coming off the 1985-86 season with an overall record of 9-18, the LadyJackets were looking to improve their mark considerably. They were looking forward to "stinging with style."

Larry Angle shows us how it's done.

"State" has a great deal to brag about in Larry Angle. He is the 1987 NAIA Champion in the high jump; 1987 All American, Indoor and Outdoor; and holds the distinction of being #3 in the nation in the high jump. Congratulations, Larry!

Intramural sports and recreation offer a variety of programs and activities for both men and women — students of the college. The various sports and recreational activities are designed to develop individual skills and interests and to permit maximum student participation.
Intramural activities are offered year around to give students a much-deserved and often-needed relief from the rigors of academics. Participation is encouraged on both the individual and team levels.

What else can you think of?

ACADEMICS
EXCELLENCE IS A TRADITION AT WVSC

West Virginia State College, located in the State's center of government, industry, business, and population is the largest institution of higher education in the Kanawha Valley and serves as a major resource center for this metropolitan area. The College provides a broad spectrum of undergraduate degree programs, both baccalaureate and associate, for residential and commuting students and offers a comprehensive schedule of classes to an exceptionally large population of evening students.

The College's primary mission focuses on strong baccalaureate degree programs in the arts and sciences and in professional studies. Additional educational needs are met with an expanding community college component, technical and career programs directed at training and retraining adults for employment, non-traditional courses and programs, cooperative education internships, and delivery systems and services offered for the adult/nontraditional population.

The Office of Academic Affairs, headed by Dr. Harry V. Scott, Vice President, consists of the following divisions:

Division of Arts and Humanities
(Art, Communications, English, Foreign Language and Music)
Helen Cropley, M.A., Chair

Division of Business Administration and Economics
(Business Administration and Economics)
Sandra Henderson, M.A., Chair

Division of Social Sciences
(History, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology)
Edwin D. Hoffman, Ed.D., Chair

Division of Natural Science and Mathematics
(Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics)
Barbara Oden, Ph.D., Chair

Division of Professional Studies
(Criminal Justice, Education, HPERS, Industrial Tech, Military Science, and Social Work)
Samuel J. Securro, Ed.D., Chair

WVSC Names Peters
Alumna Of Year

A 1949 graduate of West Virginia State College will be honored as Alumna of the Year during this week's homecoming activities.

Jean Freeman Barnes Peters was chosen by the college's Alumni Association for the award. Her husband, Joseph C. Peters, was honored in 1975 as the Alumnus of the Year.

Mrs. Peters, currently principal of Chesapeake Elementary School, entered State when she was 16. After she received her bachelor's degree in education, she returned to Virginia, her home state, where she taught in Richmond public schools for 13 years. She pioneered the teaching of economics to primary students. In 1968, the American Schools Association awarded her a scholarship to study the free enterprise system at Adelphi University. She holds a master's from Purdue University where she was awarded an experienced teacher fellowship for economics. Peters was among first to be selected as a curriculum specialist by the Richmond school system, and in 1975 she was promoted to school principal.

After moving to Charleston, a classroom teacher for two years, she became principal of Chesapeake Elementary.

Homecoming activities will continue through Saturday. For more information, call 766-3236.

20 Residence Halls Close for the Fall Semester
Students at West Virginia State College suffering from final exam trauma may relieve their anxieties by taking whacks at a discarded auto. The activity is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dec. 12, on the parking lot behind Fleming Hall.

Jo Clendenin, a secretarial science major from Cross Lanes, said the Future Secretaries Association at the College is sponsoring the event to raise funds to send members to a national conference in Puerto Rico.

“We designed this activity so WVSC students can take their frustrations and anxieties out on the junk car before finals,” Clendenin said. Final examinations for fall semester classes begin Dec. 15.

As president of the association, Clendenin said students will be allowed two hits for $1 if tickets are purchased in advance from club members, or $1.50 if bought at the event.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the organization’s advisors, Janet Martin, associate professor at 766-3029, or Delores Taylor, associate professor at 766-3421.

Hechler to speak at State’s graduation

Secretary of State Ken Hechler will be the graduation speaker at West Virginia State College Friday.

More than 170 students will be awarded two-year associate or four-year baccalaureate degrees at the ceremony. It will be held at 6:30 p.m. in Fleming Hall, the college’s gymnasium.

MIC group meets Tuesday at State

People Concerned About MIC will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 221 of the Fine Arts Building of West Virginia State College.

Legette makes roster of USBL club in Miami

Ron Legette of West Virginia State College has made the roster of the Miami Tropics of the United States Basketball League. Legette is a 6-foot point guard from Syracuse, N.Y.

Another State player, 6-foot-8 Larry Bryson of Charleston, was one of two players placed on the Tropics' taxi squad. The USBL is a summer professional league.

Ron Angle of West Virginia State College captured the high jump title Saturday at the NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Angle's leap of 7-0¼ earned the senior a spot on the NAIA all-America outdoor team for the third consecutive year. It was the second straight season State has had an athlete win the NAIA high jump. Ron Pleasant was last year's champion.

State's James Land finished in a tie for seventh in the high jump with a leap of 6-8¾. Land also finished seventh in the long jump.

Caldwell ‘best choice’ for job, State president says

Legette taken

Moore, a seven-foot center, was selected in the second round by the New York Knicks. Moore was the second player taken in the second round — just ahead of All-America guard Steve Alford of Indiana. Moore was the 25th player taken overall in the draft.

Legette, a teammate of Moore at West Virginia State, was selected by the Golden State Warriors in the seventh round as the 152nd player taken. Legette, a 6-foot point guard, averaged 23 points and 10 assists this past season for the Jackets.

Please accept the ARCH staff's apologies for having omitted this page from the ROTC section.
This was a monumental year for the ARCH. After two years of hibernation, the bear awoke ready to work. We had our problems, but when the last "T" was crossed, and the last "i" dotted, we knew we had a winner.

I would like to thank everyone who made the 1987 ARCH possible and give special acknowledgement to the following people:

The ARCH Staff
Bobby Redman of the YELLOWJACKET
Charles Byers, Technical Advisor
DelMar Studios
D. Tad Alonso and Josten's Printing & Publishing
Chris Blankenship
Pro Art and Framing

and without whom the book would be impossible:

The ADMINISTRATION, FACULTY, STAFF, AND STUDENTS OF WEST VIRGINIA STATE COLLEGE.

Thank You,

Maureen E. Dillard
