Sheldon Woodley and the distinguished men of Alpha Phi Alpha kicked a hard step.

The ladies of Delta Sigma Theta displayed their sign at the Homecoming Step Show.

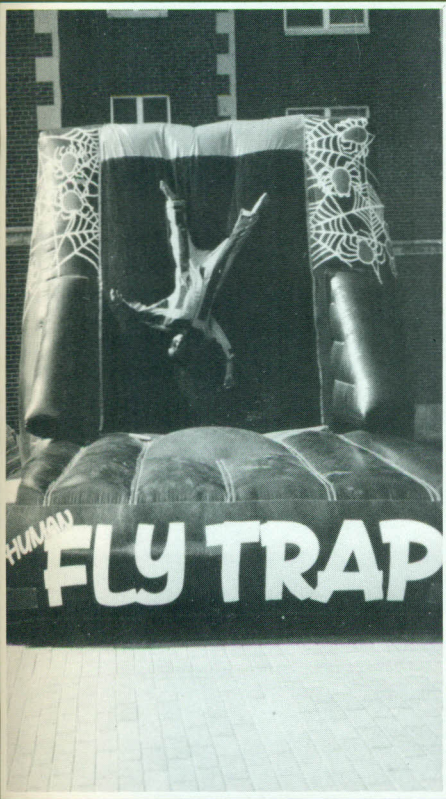

Let's just say that the brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi showed off just a little at the step show.

Sheldon Woodley and Charles Parkman posed with the singing group "One of the Girls".

Anyone hungry? Students took advantage of the great "free" food being served at Homecoming.

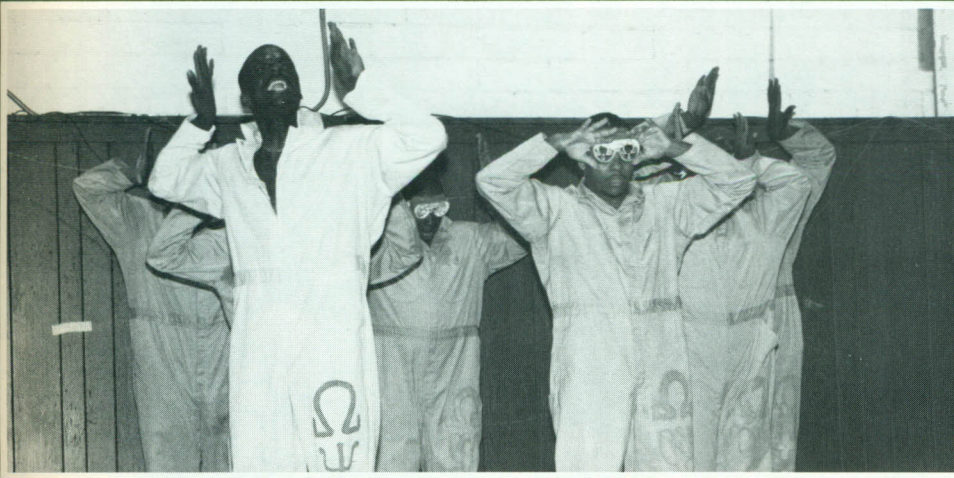

Capturing The Dream

Homecoming activities for the 93-94 school year consisted of many a fun filled day and exciting night. The fun days were filled with food, fund raising activities, and many different carnival games. The exciting nights were filled with formal boat rides, exhilarating step shows, and "dance till you drop" parties. The highlight of the Homecoming activities was the concert that Men at Large and One of the Girls gave. All and all if the Homecoming was not a dream come true, it surely gave wonderful dreams of the years to come for W.V.S.C. Homecoming activities.

The step show wouldn't have been complete without letting the Dogs loose.

W.V.S.C. wasn't So Alone after Men at Large performed at the Capital Plaza

Miss Freshman, Miss Delta, and Miss Gore Hall made their grand entrance to the Homecoming Parade.

West Virginia State's Marching Band was on its toes for the fans at the Homecoming Parade.

Miss Phi Sigma Kappa waved to the crowd as she made her way onto the field.

Here Comes The Parade!

Homecoming Parade 1993-1994 was another great success with a little twist. It was sheer delight for the spectators as they watched the Queens in the shiny cars and the big fire engines and listened to local bands as they traveled from Shawnee Park onto the WVSC football field. The little twist in 1994's parade was seeing Mr. and Miss State and Little Mr. and Miss State travel in the horse drawn carriage.

The members of Delta Gamma Sigma displayed some school spirit at the Parade.

Little Mr. and Ms. State

Mr. State
James Robinson

Miss State, Shanis Padgett, and Mr. State, James Robinson, waved to the applauding crowd.

Christi Brown showed off her talent by singing a Whitney Houston favorite, "I Will Always Love You."

Blossom Martindale showed that dancing can be a second language.

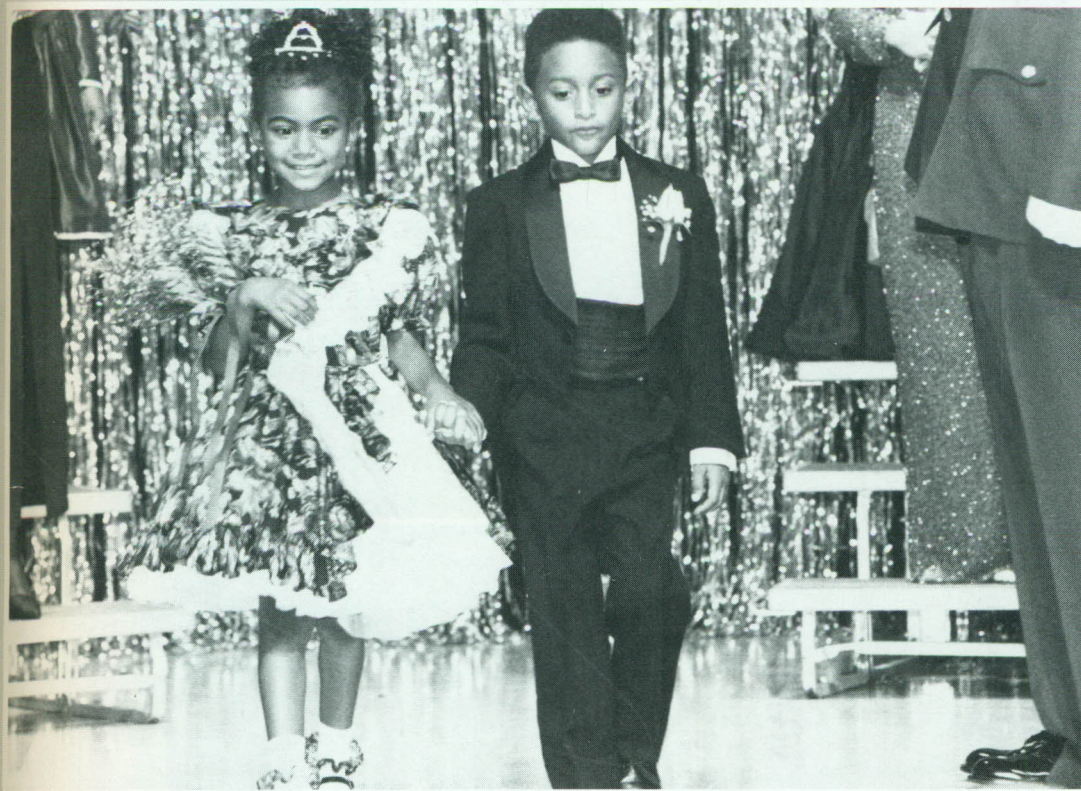

William Covington sang his heart out at the Coronation Pageant.

The Crowning of the Queens

The future of WVSC lay in the hands of these beautiful children, Little Miss State, Krysta Greenleaf, and Little Mr. State, Marcus Presley.

The 1993-1994 Homecoming Coronation Pageant took place in Ferrell Hall, Sunday, October 10, at seven o'clock p.m. The Coronation Pageant is the official crowning of all the Homecoming Queens.

During the Pageant there was poetry, singing, and dancing, but, above all, there was a beautiful array of young ladies. Although there were a few surprises, the Coronation Pageant was a night to remember.

Iris Miller emotionally recited one of her unique poems accompanied by Charmlin Howard on the sax.

"Miss State" along with some members of the Homecoming Court showed the crowd that not only were they beautiful but also they could dance.

Even through rain, W.V.S.C. fans still came out to support their Yellow Jackets.

Quarterback Mark Terry attempts to make a first down by handing off to a teammate.

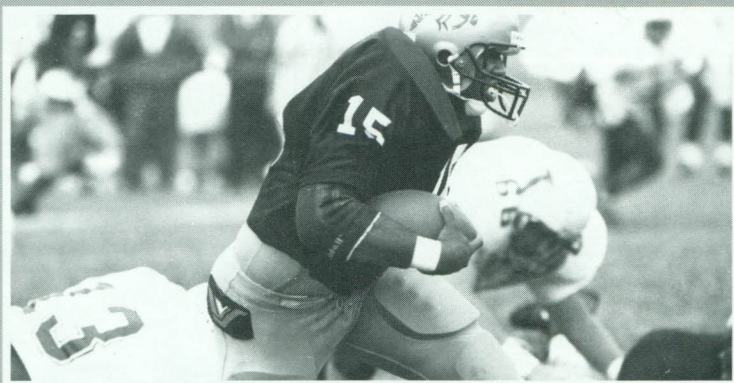

The Rain Did It

Are we excited or what? The students at W.V.S.C. showed their enthusiasm at the Homecoming Game.

"Oh Nuts! It's starting to Rain," thought Terry Lauchart

Homecoming Game was full of excitement until just before half time; the dark clouds filled the sky, the rain poured down, and the fans emptied the stands. It was doubly disappointing that the Jack-ets were unable to deliver a victory. Better luck next year!

Yohan Smith broke through the defense of Fairmont State to gain some yards for the Yellow Jack-ets.

QUEENS

Like father, like son; Ahmed Witten and his son, Malik, both "as cute as they wanna be."

In uniform or out, the W.V.S.C. cheerleaders lit up the scene wherever they went.

It's picture time! A group of photogenic students gathered around.

"Look at those girls with the Daisy Dukes on." Cindy Sea, Trena Lawson, and Neshia Watson.

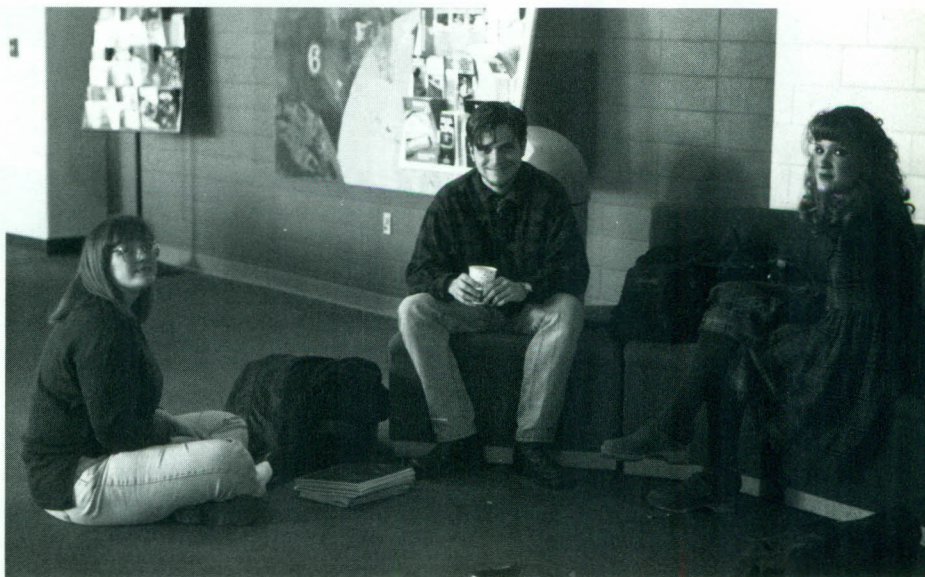

Tonya Lee, Phyllis Sea, Nisha Lee, Carla Bryant, and Crisjonet Johnson, smiled for the camera.

"Hey, can we get your autographs?"

Members of WVSC Hoop Squad: Terry, Deuce, Moe, Shawn

And who said there was no time to relax in college.

It was always nice to pose for the camera.

Chris, Brad, & Brian were just "chillin'."

Seeking shelter from the rain.

Carlos said "Hello" to some of the children of WVSC.

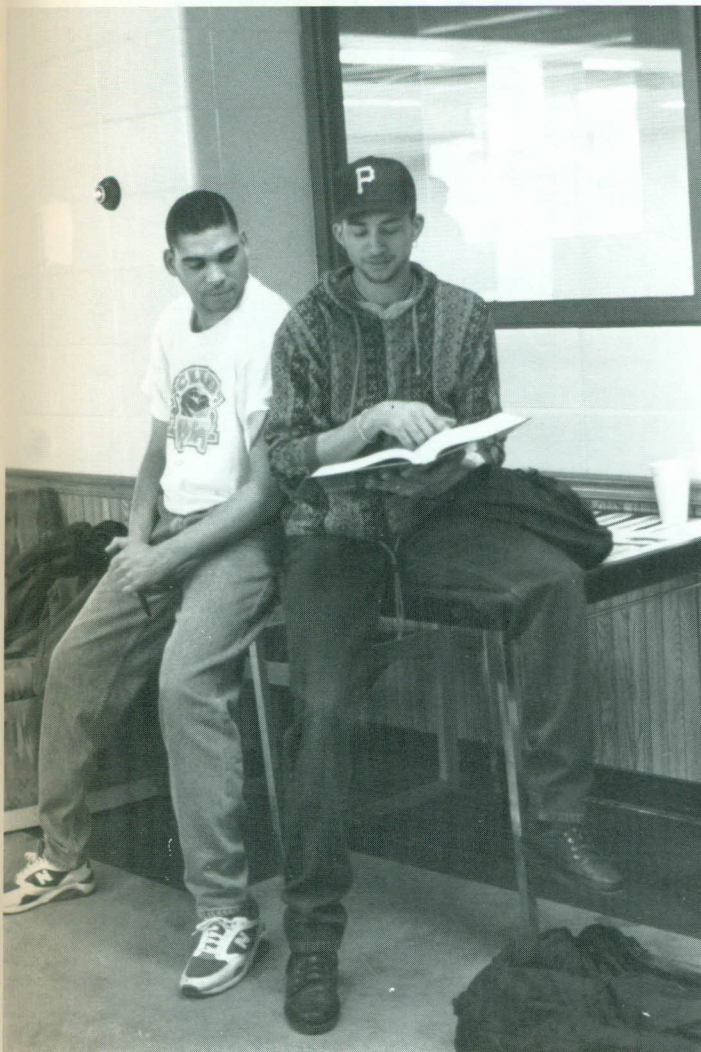

A quick call between classes.

A nice conversation over lunch.

The union was like a second home for the students.

Join the crowd.

Striving for Success

John W. Davis Building and its Fine Arts

John W. Davis Fine Arts Building

One of the many artists at WVSC.

From the creative minds of WVSC students.

No matter where, this dedicated musician took time to rehearse.

Displayed at the back entrance of the Fine Arts Building.

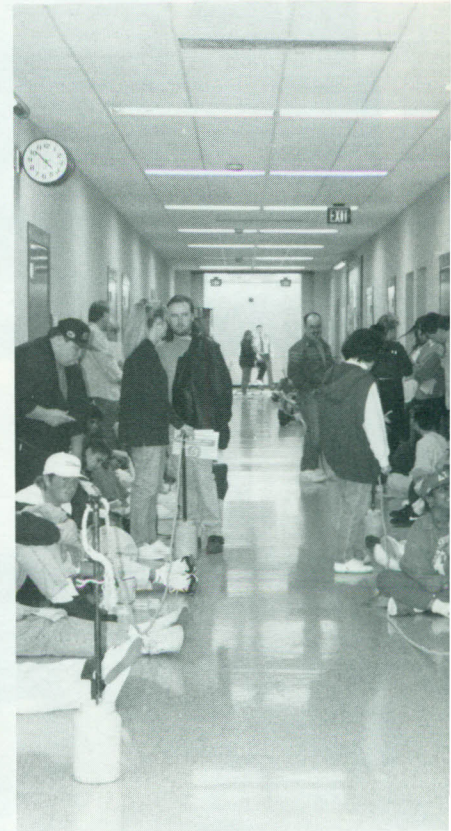

Just to be a Student at W.V.S.C.

Ferrell Hall or the "A" (Administration) Building was where registration took place.

"I hope none of my classes are closed."

You should have come sooner.

Having to stand for hours just to give your life savings to the cashier.

Pat realized that it was time for class.

Arriving early for class.

Group learning was a helpful tactic.

"You did well on your test."

Looking over homework before time to hand in.

"Shay, stop eating that candy and help me."

Some well known celebrities came to tell how they made it to the top.

"Mr. Lewis, what do I do now?"

Priscilla stayed after class to talk to professor Withrow.

K.W. didn't waste time to leave.

Race and Gender class was a learning experience for all who were in it.

T.D. Maze showed that lab work could be done by oneself.

Safety was the best policy.

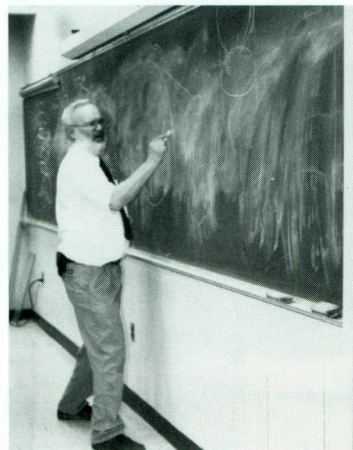

Preparing to start the lesson in Race and gender class.

Science on the Move

Hamblin Hall Science Building

"Hey, Professor. Is mine right?"

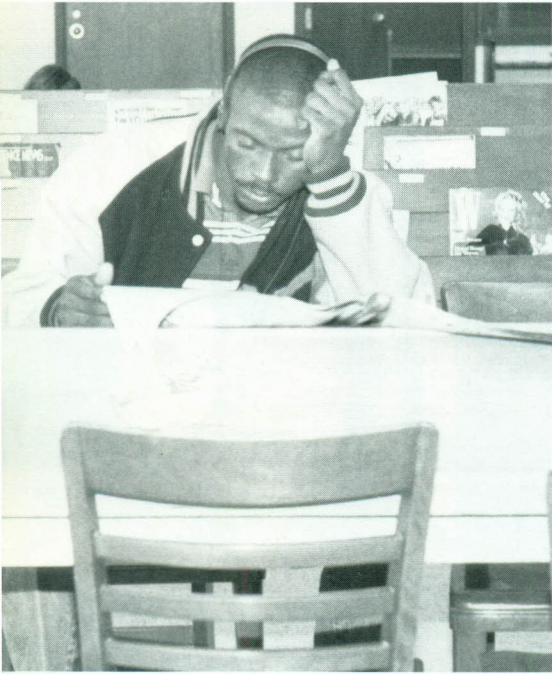

A messy chalkboard was a sign of a hard day's work.

Jotting down a few notes for the lab.

Quiet, please! You're in the library

Students came to the library in rain, sleet, or snow.

Mario Lewis read the newspaper in his spare time.

Finding good help was always a stress reliever.

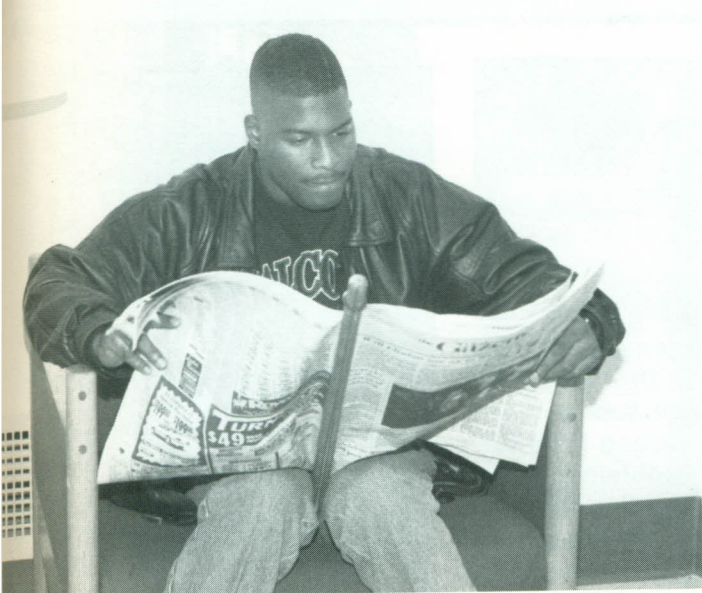

"I hope they have my book in here."

Learning about computers was a group effort.

Looking for the right book was very tiring.

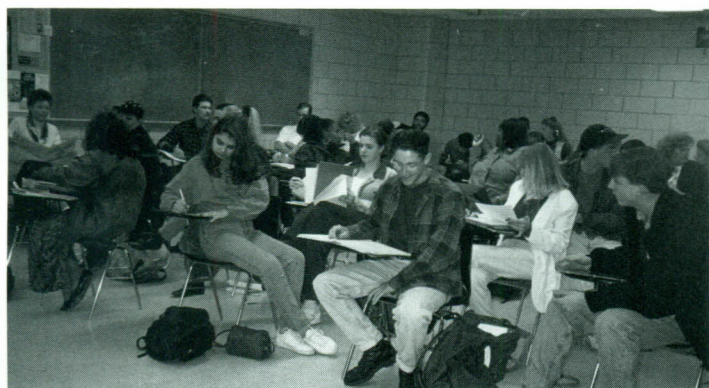

Time spent in the library was not always for studying.

Ahmed read the newspaper to catch up on some current events.

Wallace Hall

It takes more than one mind to tackle the computer.

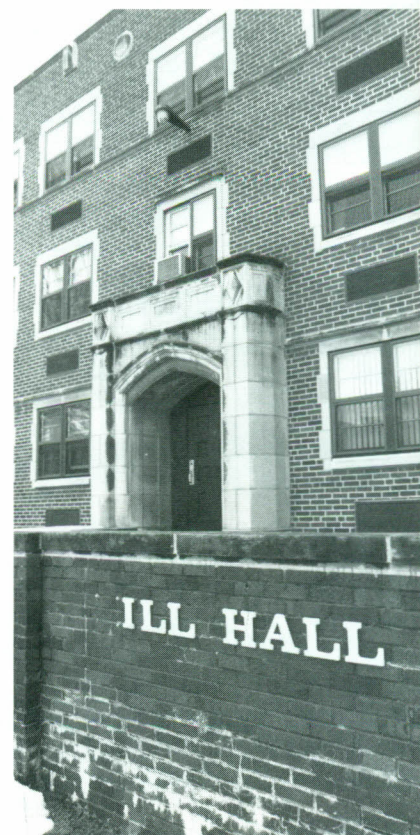

With Mr. Boone out of the room, conversation was in order.

Wallace Hall was erected in 1971. Named for Dr. William J.L. Wallace, President of the College, 1933 to 1968. The computer science and mathematics laboratories are located here. While primarily a classroom building, it also houses faculty offices for the Departments of Education, Mathematics, Psychology, and Social Work and the Career Planning and Placement office.

This institution was the shelter for most of the crazy and deranged professors at WVSC. They were placed here for a number of problems: lack of sleep from grading too many papers, staring at a computer screen for hours on end, and inhaling too much chalk dust. With proper treatment, they would be able to teach business, education, math, etc., once again.

Hill Hall

Man of many talents.

Dr. Hazo Carter, Jr., entered his sixth year as president of West Virginia State College. Dr. Carter's career in higher education included positions of executive assistant to the president, assistant vice president for student affairs, and vice president for student affairs at Norfolk State University. Prior to assuming the presidency at WVSC in 1987, he served for four years as president of Philander Smith College.

Dr. Carter also served as chair and vice chair of the Advisory Council of Presidents of the State College System and secretary of the WV Association of College and University presidents. Dr. Carter co-authored several articles in academic journals, and he received the highest award given by Tennessee State University in recognition of his outstanding service and achievements in the field of education.

The first family.

Waiting to speak on behalf of the honorees.

Dr. Carter "checking" in with Chubby Checker.

If it's O.K. with Dr. Carter, it's O.K. with State.

Educating for the twenty-first century.

For Some Football

Becoming the '93-'94 Regatta Bowl Champions over arch-rival West Virginia Tech gave WVSC an optimistic entry into the football season. In the Regatta Bowl, Aron Cureton made a 72-yard punt return for a touchdown. Against Elon, State scored first on a 21-yard pass from QB Michael Ford to wideout Mario Lewis. Senior LB Jimmy Dunn intercepted for State's final score of the day. At Cheyney QB Jay Townsend made a 15 yard TD pass to Mario Lewis while sophomore Chuck Wood supplied a 35 yard field goal. At Athens RB Vidal Adams accounted for 89 yards. Against Fairmont, a 27-yard interception return by DL David Jenab, a 97-yard kickoff return by Aron Cureton and a 3-yard TD run by Vidal Adams gained points. Of Basketball

In 1994, WVSC Women's basketball team planned to exhibit more speed. Speaking of the previous season, Head Coach Barbara Burke said, "I wasn't disappointed and I wasn't totally pleased. The main thing I was happy about was we got better with every game and every practice."

The 11-strong seniorless team returned its top four scorers from the previous season: guard Mia Lewis, forward Jennifer Akers, center Christia Saunders and forward Genean Jones. The team also included guard Julie Meeks. Unlike the men's team, the base of State's Women's team was from West Virginia.

Basketball Team

Opening the '93-'94 basketball season, Coach Robert Marshall called for patience. Of the 15 Yellow Jackets who played the previous season, only four remained. Ten players were new and nine were rookies in West Virginia. Still, Marshall predicted a better shooting team and a better scoring team. The only West Virginia native on the team was freshman guard Ryan Varney.

Four of the returning players were point guard Karim Anderson, guard Shawn Harvey, and forwards Roderick Trent and Larry Pruitt.

Enjoying a Record Season

WVSC Baseball

West Virginia State's baseball squad continued to dominate the West Virginia Conference in 1994, racking up a school record 30 victories en route to their second consecutive WVIAC title.

The Jackets, who have never had a losing season under head coach Calvin Bailey, used a team batting average of .371 and 64 homeruns to power their way to a 30-12 record and a trip to the NAIA Mideast Regionals in Gastonia, NC. Bailey earned his 400th career victory April 23, in a doubleheader sweep of West Liberty.

State posted an 18-2 record in the WVIAC in winning their seventh title under Bailey, taking a 14-game winning streak into the District 28 playoffs in Princeton. The Jackets then cruised through the District 28 playoffs, crushing Concord (23-2), Shepherd (14-8) and West Virginia Wesleyan (14-6) to earn the trip to Gastonia, where they lost to Coker College and Union College, after defeating Union in the opening round.

The Jackets were led by WVIAC Co-Hitter of the Year and senior Corey Morris, who boasted a .430 batting average with 17 homeruns. Fellow senior Mike Allen was right behind Morris, hitting .416 with nine homeruns. Junior Mark Bloomfield, who hit .409 with six homeruns, joined Morris and Allen on the All-WVIAC and All-NAIA Mideast region teams.

State's senior class of Morris, Allen, and Bill Klaiber finished their careers with a four-year record of 112-43, a winning percentage of .723.
